A photograph of a room completely overwhelmed by a massive, disorganized pile of books, papers, and documents. The floor is covered in a sea of white and yellow papers, with books scattered everywhere. In the background, wooden bookshelves are also overflowing with books, some standing upright and others leaning precariously. A small, lit lamp stands in the middle of the room, casting a warm glow. The overall scene conveys a sense of extreme clutter and chaos.

Requiring ORCID in Publication Workflows: Open Letter

Major publishers have committed to requiring ORCID iDs in the publishing process for their journals and invite other publishers to do the same.

In November, 2015, a group of publishers asked ORCID to help facilitate communications about their plans to require authors to use an ORCID iD, including hosting this open letter explaining their rationale, developing best practices for using iDs in publishing, and maintaining the signatory list. The publishers' goal is to encourage others to join them in supporting the adoption of ORCID. Publishers signing this open letter are committing to requiring ORCID iDs during 2016 following specific implementation standards.

Why Require ORCID?

ORCID provides a digital name – or iD – that uniquely and persistently identifies researchers and contributors. By connecting this iD to different research activities and affiliations across multiple research information platforms, ORCID helps enable recognition and reduce reporting burdens for researchers. It also enhances the discovery process and lays the foundation for trust in a digital research environment. Crossref's recently launched Auto-Update functionality – which (with researcher permission) updates an author's ORCID record when the author uses their iD during the publishing process – further benefits researchers by alleviating the need to re-enter publication data in multiple systems. Importantly, it also provides an independent assertion of the connection between the author and their work.

With more than 3,000 journals already collecting ORCID iDs from corresponding authors, through all major manuscript submission systems, publishers are in a unique position to facilitate widespread adoption of ORCID. Indeed, researchers are most likely to encounter ORCID in publishing systems: about 75% of registrations occur because journals are asking authors to include their ORCID in new submissions. Researchers are also increasingly encountering ORCID in their university systems, and funders including the Wellcome Trust and EMBO have begun to require the use of ORCID in grant application systems.

In a recent survey of ~6,000 people (mostly researchers) carried out by ORCID, more than 70% said they would welcome compulsory use of ORCID iDs in publishing workflows. From January 2016, several publishers will be requiring the use of ORCID iDs by corresponding authors during the publication process and are inviting other publishers to do the same. This initiative will further speed the implementation of ORCID, support its use by researchers, and illustrate to

The screenshot shows the 'MLA ORCID Application' interface. At the top, there are navigation links for 'Link 1', 'Link 2', and 'Link 3'. Below the header, there are buttons for 'Refine Search' and 'Done'. The main content area is titled 'Search Result for:' and lists two authors: 'Neil Balavram' and 'Hugo Achugar'. Under 'Hugo Achugar', there are filters for 'Year' (1990 (5)) and 'Publisher' (Ed. del Norte/City Univ.). The search results list five items, each with a green 'Added to ORCID' button:

- Primeros apuntes para una historia de la crítica uruguaya Lb1 Pub1, 1990 Author: Hugo Achugar
- Postmodernity and fin de siècle in Uruguay Lb1 Pub2, 1990 Author: Hugo Achugar, Jean Franco
